The cadets were organized in 1889, and represent the flower of the youth of that large parish. At present the cadets have a membership of 200. They drill every week under the direction of a member of the Twelfth Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., and are said to be very proficient in drill and instruction.

CAPT. H. CHARLTON.
Company G, G. S. 89.

Major John Roach, Capt. George Nicholson and Capt. John Burke. The lieutenants, sergeants and corporals are selected by competitive examinations, so that the companies are composed by the brightest boys in the organization.

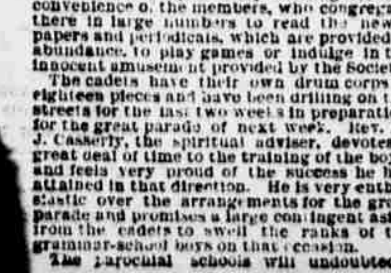

CAPT. H. J. BREMER.

The uniform of the cadets consists of the regulation fatigue cap, navy blue jacket, light blue trousers and white leggings. The boys make an exceedingly fine appearance on parade, and their soldierly bearing and correct marching order never fail to excite admiration.

WEBSTER SENTENCED

Broker Goodwin's Slayer Gets Nineteen Years in State Prison.

His Counsel Immediately Secures a Writ of Habeas Corpus.

Every Effort to Be Made to Keep Him Out of Sing Sing.

BURTON C. WEBSTER.

Webster has maintained the coolness of a practiced gambler in chances ever since he was sentenced to the penitentiary for the murder of Charles Goodwin, a broker, on July 7, 1921.

When Webster was arraigned for sentence his lawyer, William F. Howe, made the usual formal motion for a new trial on the ground of error in the admission of evidence and in charging to the jury.

The motion was denied and the sentence followed, Justice Ingraham making no comment whatever.

Webster hurried out of court with his keeper and back to the Tombs.

He was not surprised. He said to an Evening World reporter:

"I have no complaint to make. I do not wish to criticize the Judge. He thought I was guilty, and I think he ruled strongly against me all through the trial, for to save my life I cannot see how I am blameworthy for killing Goodwin. I was defending the woman whom I considered to be my wife."

Under Sheriff Sexton said that Webster would go with to-morrow morning's batch of prisoners to Sing Sing if no stay was obtained.

Mr. Howe, however, got out a writ of habeas corpus for his client from Justice Patterson, in the Supreme court, shortly after the sentence was pronounced.

The writ is returnable Oct. 11.

If it is successful this will be the first step in a litigation that will operate to keep Webster out of prison for a year or more at least, and perhaps he will be admitted to bail, as did Dr. McGonigal.

SPREAD THE GREAT TRUTHS.

The Purpose of the Western Democratic Campaign Fund.

to Accomplish.

The Western Democratic Campaign Fund total now amounts to $31,787.05, a sum that will do valuable service in the dissemination of the great principles of tariff reform among those voters in the Northwest who have shown a disposition to break away from the party that has so long oppressed them.

The campaign this year has been singularly backward, and when it is considered that a President is to be elected five weeks from Tuesday it will be seen that there is a vast amount of work to be crowded into a very short space of time. Little enthusiasm has been manifested as yet by either party here in the East, but in the West, where some of the greatest battles of the campaign are to be fought, already the voice of the spirit of the hour is heard in the land, during the coming week the force of democratic and republican orators will be largely increased, and from now on there will be little talked about but the principles of protection and tariff reform.

The Western Democratic campaign fund was designed for the purpose of carrying out the democratic policy of truth.

It is hoped and believed that by a proper exposition of the benefits of tariff reform enough converts can be made to Cleveland and Stevenson to win sufficient votes from the Republican column to offset the possible loss of New York's thirty-six electoral votes.

It is with this in mind that the fund was established, and it is hoped that the fund will be able to help the Democratic cause with their money and their influence that it is necessary to send in subscriptions at once.

Last week the fund advanced in a way satisfactory to those interested in the good work it is expected to accomplish.

When the fund was first started, it was seen that during the week then ending, 1,387 persons had contributed to the fund through the work of the fund.

The fund has been successful in its work, and it is hoped that the fund will be able to help the Democratic cause with their money and their influence that it is necessary to send in subscriptions at once.

John L. and James J. Both in Town To-Day.

The A. A. U. championships have come and gone. They demonstrated two things pretty clearly, that New York is the only place for the holding of such a big meet and that the interest taken in athletics in this country is nothing to what it should be.
